PLACE OF MEETING

Least For Time

Members of the congregation of Central Baptist church are considering ways and means for obtaining a temporary meeting place, to be occupied during the time their present edifice is razed and a handsome new church is built on the site.

Several suggestions now are under advisement by the officials and members of the church. One plan would call for the holding of meetings in the old car barn, the street cars parked there being utilized for the Sunday school classes. Another plan would provide for the use of a large tent throughout the summer.

The Central Baptist congregation plans to begin the task of tearing down the present building this month, and to begin work on the new structure in July, completing it by the com-

Two notes were admitted yesterday after being barred Thursday. These notes were written to Mrs. Scott and said to be from a "mystery man."

Mark Cunningham took the stand in his behalf and denied in toto all charges made against him. Cunningham sai dhe had never seen Scott in all his life and had not seen Scott for a number of years. He told of his whereabouts on the evening of the alleged murder and attack and denied directly the killing.

The morning session was consumed in hearing witnesses in rebuttal which developed little testimony of interest. Every effort was being nade by both sides to end the trial

It was conceded however that it would be late in the day before the case was in the hands of the jury. The case resulted in conviction and a life sentence at a former trial. This ver-

Message of Greeting Is Musical Features Headliners In Farm Relations Meet

> Perhaps 300 people of the Woodland Mills community packed into the school building at that point Friday night to witness the program of the Albany-Decatur Kiwanis club, arranged by the Farm Relations committee. T. M. Dix delivered the address of the evening, telling of the purposes of such gatherings and of the principles of Kiwanianism.

Dr. J. T. Russell opened the meeting with a few cordial words of welcome and turned the meeting over to A. A. Jones, Kiwanis chief, who in turn introduced Mr. Dix, in brief, assured the vast audience of the wishes of Kiwanians for the future development of Morgan county and the offered service of Albany-Decatur toward creating prosperous conditions throughout the county.

Miss Sallye Hamilton, home demonstration agent for this county and J. C. Ford, county farm agent, talked briefly of their work in the county members of the audience who have been leaders in the spread of farm and home work in Morgan county.

A. A. Jones then introduced M. R. Rankin, Kiwanis song director, who led the audience in song after two numbers by the Kiwanis delegation. Hubert and Eric Mitchell entertained with saw, violin and guitar numbers. Clyde Hendrix drew the heaviest call for encore of the evening with an original buck and wing favorite, accompanied by the Mitchell troupe. With Bob Daniel presiding at the organ, M. R. Rankin again led the audience in song, concluding the meeting with two rousing Kiwanis numbers by the visiting delegation.

Sheriff Receives Praise For Work

Sheriff C. E. Poole today is in re-Charles E. McCall, chief examiner of accounts, following the report of conditions at Morgan County jail for the period June 1, 1924 to April 1, 1926. "The report shows a full compliance with the law and requirements of the State Prison Inspector and is creditable to your administration of these particular affairs of your office. I am pleased to congratulate you on the good showing made," was the report from Mr. McCall.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 15-Permanent dismissal of Warden Charand its progress, introducing several les R. Davis, Sr., and his son, Charles R. Davis, Jr., Flat Top mine officials and resignation of two other employes at the mine were announced by the state board of administration.

Warden Davis and his son were granted temporary leaves of absence from the mine, at their own request, about two months ago preliminary to the Jefferson county grand jury investigation into the death of James Knox, convict.

The grand jury subsequently re-turned an indictment charging murder against Warden Davis, Sr., in connection with the death of the convict. Knox is alleged to have died in a prison vat, while being given a 'ducking" as punishment for refusal to Fellow convicts charged that bichloride of mercury later was pumped into the body to stimulate suicide by direction of the warden.

Resignations of J. W. Corbin, former pit boss and T. R. Jones, former ceipt of a complimentary report from hall sergeant, also have been accepted, the board announced.

Thomas Crawley has been appointed to succeed Mr. Jones, while Corbin's position has not been filled. Dismissal from Warden Davis and his son was by vote of the board to transfer the temporary leave of absence into a permanent one. The action follows a recent resolution of the board, authorizing a complete re-organization of the Flat Top officials and ned by British sailors, they could bring food supplies from all over the world. And there wouldn't be any strike on board, for that would mean mutiny, and "the yard arm."

Warden George T. Walls, formerly of Speigner prison, has been assigned duty as acting warden at Flat Top with supervision over Banner and Aldrich mines.

SOCIALISTS, and others that urge and foster 'class consciousnes.' want the class at the bottom to realize that it is at the bottom and unite to get up higher, or at least pull down the top.

Britain shows how class consciousness works, at least in the be-

The British upper class always 'class conscious" has felt that it was the nation, and to a large extent, it was. The upper class of intelligence invented modern machinery. The working united to smash the machines, and they had to be hidden in forts. The working class knows how that machinery has doubled and trebled wages, even if it doesn't make things perfect.

In the British situation, class consciousness causes those at the top to reent what they feer to be tupid action by a mob that should gratefully "take what it gets."

Those at the bottom mistrust the top. Class consciousness quickly becomes class hatred.

IT IS NOT a pleant situation, but good will come of it first of all, when they get over this trouble, and resume control of the nation, as they will, the men of intelligence and power will work to make the nation independent of coal and the mine owners will find themselves owners of coal that won't sell for what it costs to dig.

BUYING up oil territory everywhere, Britain has already started her emancipation from coal power. Development of water ' power will complete the job.

it the British government had completed development of the power of the tides at the mouth of the Severn, that one enterprise would now supply light and power to the six biggest cities in England.

BOTH TOP and bottom British class conscious groups may find a surprise they won't like coming out of this strike. Intensive development of automatic machinery to take the place of human hands-machinery cannot strike-will worry labor. And compulsory experiment with government management and government ownership will worry the ruling power of organized capital, which has for its golden rule, "the people cannot do anything for themselves.'

CONTRAST Henry Ford's methods with British coal mines where men are nothing, the automatic owner never seeing the inside of a mine, or the face of a miner.

Only a few years since English women, working in shafts too long even for mutes or donkeys, dragged out the little coal carts, slowly. painfully creeping on their hands and knees. A strap or chain around the neck, passing under the breast, was fastened to the ear behind them.

AND NOT long ago, a regular business in England was starving little boys that they might remain small enough to go down narrow chimneys and clean them, they were beaten it caught secretly eating. They died young, but the mothers provided plenty more.

Women crawl no longer through coal shafts on hands and knees, dragging coal cars, and machinery in place of half starved little boys cleans the soot from British chimneys. That is progress.

There may be greater progress at the end of this strike, enough to make it a national blessing.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER and Henry Ford, who probably consider themselves destined "individualists." demonstrate what government management might do, intelligently and honestly conducted, if that were possible. Rockefeller at one time practically controlled an entire industry. If one man could do it a nation could do it.

Henry Ford dominates another gigantic industry. He is the sole owner, and not being a hired man, whose first duty is to furnish dividends to owners, Ford can run his business on a common sense basis.

IN HIS lumber camps, where other employers had kept their men in hardship, misery and utter degradation, Ford has electric lights, clean beds, recreation hall and good wages. Millions a year profit, on a "low price to the public and high wage for workers" basis.

The Colbert County Reporter says:

Last week the Reporter was favored with a call from Judge Thos. W. Wert, of Decatur, candidate for attorney general.

Judge Wert is a young man of sterling character and possesses splendid ability as a lawyer and will grace the position of attorney general, lending both dignity and competency to the office.

With his experience both at the bar and on the bench Judge Wert will be able to carry with him to the important position to which he aspires a ripe experience so necessary for the proper conduct of the

The Reporter does not hesitate to recommend Judge Wert to the voters of Colbert county, and it hopes to see him elected to the position because he has the ability to administer the affairs of the office of attorney general. Then too he is a product of the Tennessee Valley, being our next door neighbor, and Colbert county should give him its suffrage.

MISSISSIPPI FINDS STRAWBERRIES PROVIDE ANOTHER READY MONEY CROP

The Anniston Star calls attention to the work Missisippi farmers are doing toward building up sections of that state as great strawberry areas. The Star says:

Strawberries, that can be grown as successfully in Alabama as in Mississippi, are proving a moneymaking crop in Lauderdale county, Mississippi, according to a report from Meridian. This season, the Meridian report says, twenty carloads of strawberries already have been shipped from Lauderdale county by the Strawberry Growers' Association, and twenty-five carloads more are in sight for shipment. The president of the Strawberry Growers' Association, J. G. Hobgood, is quoted as saying the members of the association will realize $80,000 from their berries this year, most of the berries selling thus far at $6 a crate. The entire crop was raised on 140 acres.

To what other crop could 140 acres be planted to bring the farmers $80,000? Five hundred and seventy-one dollars is a pretty good income from an acre of ground. Another thing noticed in the strawberry report from Mississippi is the way in which the berries are marketed. The Strawberry Growers' Association looks after the shipping and marketing of the berries. Here is co-operative selling in a practical way, and it evidently is paying, as co-operative selling always does when handled in a business-like man-

It might interest the Star to know that Alabama already is proving that this state is unusually well adapted to strawberry growing. Cullman county, which adjoins Morgan, has won for itself a national reputation with its berry crop and Morgan is emulating the example. The strawberry crop in this county every year nets large sums to Morgan's farmers.

It might also interest the Star, inasmuch as that excellent paper displays much interest in the agricultural prosperity of this state, that one man in this county, a season or two back, was able to clear approximately $300 on one acre of tomatoes. Morgan is one of the leaders of Alabama in cotton production, but in justice to this county, the view that cotton is Morgan's only crop should be cor-

In this connection, The Daily recalls a statement made recently by Prof. Dowling, of Cullman county, in which he showed that Alabama, by the government's acreage check, grows many more times the number of crops grown in what are considered the greatest farm producing states in the Union. Here in Alabama we are really just beginning to learn how to farm and it will not be many years until the prosperous, well clothed, well educated, happy and contented farmer will be the rule in Alabama.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS the Sabbath and Other Days

(By J. E. BLAIR)

When unexpectedly Tuesday afternoon Dr. George R. Stuart passed away, the First Methodist church of Birmingham of which body the dead preacher was pastor for ten years, called off all its regular services indifinitely. It was impossible with the body of their beloved pastor lying in the parsonage near the church for the minds of the members of the congregation to be turned away from the life and character of their fallen leader.

"He lived as he did and died as he did, because he was what he was," to use the words once applied to Abraham Lincoln, by the late Bishop Phillips Brooks. Dr. Stuart first saw the light of day near Cleveland, Tennessee, as the son of a tennant farmer. He first saw the light such as shone around about St. Paul, on the Damascus road in an humble Quaker revival meeting at Friendsville, Tenn. His first act as one who had experienced the "new father and sob out a desire that the father accept the same Christ young Stuart had accepted. The father did as the young son asked. The fact that George R. Stuart kept toward the whole world the same kind of an attitude became an evangelist and perhaps the greatest foe John Would it not be a splendid idea, when we are entertain- Barleycorn ever had in the Southern states, with the pos-Christian it was incidental that Stuart the man, never became ugly and sarcastic when opposing the works of the devil, as set up by those parasites called men by some, who for selfish gain have failed to join battle with the Lord of Hosts-though begged time and again to "come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty."

It was but incidental to his Christian profession, that Stuart defended the American Sabbath as a day men should give to the public and private worship of God and to the works of necessity and mercy. It was but an insis, to be able to subscribe $5,000. That is the kind of cident in his Christian life that Dr. Stuart always deposited a ballot against the whisky traffic-it was but a displayed the same degree of interest in civic affairs and Sunday movies, public dance halls and all the other things a willingness to make financial sacrifice to make their that put bad spiritual tastes in the youths, God fearing men and women. In a word, it was but incidental, that Mr. Allen, who has been here in the interest of the as- George Stuart was the "Moses type" as opposed to the phalt plant, paid high tribute to quality of the asphalt "Aaron type." Stuart, like Moses, loved the people but he did not trust the people's judgment as to what was best for them! Dr. Stuart knew that just so long as "the people" fill the broad road to destruction, they should be followed after with loving entreaty, but never followed as to their natural desires and opinions. porter, Walter Miller's paper, in favor of the candidacy Dr. Stuart died in the triumphs of the faith. He believed of Judge Thomas W. Wert for attorney general, is very in the ultimate triumph of righteousness, but he doubtgratifying to Judge Wert's hundreds of Morgan county less had his doubts as to whether or not an Apostolic friends, who see increasing evidence, day by day, of his Christianity was being practiced by the vast majority of the professed church members of the present generation. There is no use to say for Dr. Stuart-peace be unto thee, eternal peace and test and the fulfilment of the great behest thou has been faithful over a few things over ten cities shalt thou rule—for he has already passed over to rest under the shade of the trees!

To The People of Morgan County:

At this time many questions and issues of great moment are being discussed by the people of the great State of Alabama.

These questions and issues are of course also engaging the attention of the citizenship of Albany-Decatur and of Morgan county and are of much concern and importance to all of us.

JOHN PATTERSON

Alabama's First Duty Is To Her Boys and Girls

Ranking first in importance is perhaps the question of education, for undoubtedly Alabama's first obligation is to her boys and girls.

To provide that every boy and girl within the State may have a chance and to provide for them an opportunity to obtain an education, to set up some system of training for those who are to become teachers, to set up a salary schedule and to provide for the erection of school buildings and their equipment and to place Alabama in the fore. front along educational lines, means an increased expenditure on the part of the State, and confronts the legislature with the task and necessity of providing the money.

In event the 1927 legislature favors educational expansion, which I trust it will, it is highly important that the greatest care and caution is exercised by it in previding for the educational needs, so that injustice may not be done to any one, and this will call for an intelligent study and survey of the situation on the part of a committee which will undoubtedly be delegated to that task.

An Uninterrupted Good Roads Program

Perhaps, equally in importance to the educational question is that of good roads, and there does not seem to be any difference of opinion on the part of the people as to the necessity for good roads, neither does there seem to be any effort on the part of any one to minimize the importance of good roads; the only points in dispute seem to be the methods to be employed and the amount of money necessary to provide a complete road system for the State.

The prevailing idea is, that those who use the roads should build them and keep them in repair and it is therefore generally accepted that a tax on the sale of gasoline . or other motive power is the most equitable plan of providing and maintaining a system of good roads.

That the eyes of the nation are upon the South at the present time is a well known fact, and, that a forward step along educational lines, and, an uninterrupted program in road building would do much to direct and to rivet the eyes of the nation upon Alabama, and, that now is the accepted and psychological time no one can deny. In order to continue the present road program and to provide for a completed road system with the least possible delay, so that the present generation may in every way enjoy the benefits accruing from a system of highways over the State, the money derived from a gasoline or other motive power tax would necessarily have to be capitalized, or in other words, used to pay interest and to provide a sinking fund to retire bonds, the proceeds from the sale of which would be used in providing a complete road system.

Since any bill providing for an amendment to the constitution so as to authorize the issuance and sale of bonds for road building would provide a reasonable limit on the amount of tax that may be levied on sales of gasoline or other motive power and would also provide that regardless of the amount of the issue authorized, only such bonds would be sold as the tax on gasoline or other motive power sales would pay the interest on and provide a sinking fund for their retirement, then I can see no sound, plausible or tenable objection to the ratification by the pe of even a much larger issue than $75,000,000.00, provided of course, that the people are agreed that a progressive step for a complete road system as well as a forward step along educational lines is what is most needed to make capital and industries and farmers Alabama bound.

Full Development of Port of Mobile

The development of the Port of Mobile means much for the entire State of Alabama and for the entire South, and, the next legislature should and must enact such measures as may be necessary for the completion and full development of this Port.

Muscle Shoals

In the opposite end of the State from the Port of Moand in the heart of the Tennessee valley we have the great Muscle Shoals.

It is the opinion of many who have followed closely the efforts of Congress to dispose of the Shoals by lease or otherwise, that regardless of the disposition that may be will be called upon to enact measures that will fully protect and safeguard the rights of the great general public in the premises.

Consolidation of Albany and Decatur

The merging of the municipalities of Albany-Decatur is a question of great importance and has been commanding the attention of the citizenship of these municipalities and of the entire county of Morgan and of the State for many, many years.

Situated as they are on the banks of the Tennessee River, served by two of the greatest railroad systems in the country-the Louisvillie and Nashville and the Southern Railroads, located in the Muscle Shoals district, some forty miles from Wilson Dam and about seventeen miles from proposed Dam No. 3, enjoying reasonable transportation rates and surrounded by the most fertile and productive lands to be found anywhere, with their unification accomplished and all imaginary differences obliterated, they would have a right to command and would receive the attention of outside capital.

I am, of course, interested in educational matters and trust that I may live to see the day when the boys and girls of Alabama shall have an equal chance with the boys and girls of every State in the Union. I believe in an uninterrupted good roads program. I favor the full development and completion of the Port of Mobile. I favor such lesgislation as may be necessary to safeguard and protect the interests of the great general public in whatever disposition may be made of Muscle Shoals.

I believe past experience has demonstrated fully that two municipalities with only an imaginary line and a difference of opinion between them is a great stumbling block, a menace to progress and in every conceivable way a handicap to every kind of business, and, that so long as Albany and Decatur continue to be two separate and distinct governing bodies, situated as they are, so long must there continue to be unhealthy strife among their people and a perpetuation of discord, prejudice and hatred that can do naught but retard the wheels of progress.

I believe that the most visionary and imaginative mind can foresee but an infinitely small part of the benefits to be obtained from the merging of these two cities.

Unified, we would at once say: We are no longer a divided people, our interests are mutual and not conflicting, we have the same objective—the building of an important city on the banks of the Tennessee, and, to that end we will counsel with, not against each other, we will work with, not against each other, we have done our full duty to the coming generation and from their ankles we have removed the fetters that have so long and so seriously hampered and retarded the progress of the present generation.

In addition to all of this, the merging of these two cities must necessarily create a full and healthy growth in the county in which they are situated, since, that hearty cooperation so essential to the building of a large city will also at all times encourage a continued influx of people into the county, thus, in addition to promoting the easy marketing of farm products, making more valuable the farm lands of the county, in that the demand for them will be increased in proportion to the increase in population.

Nor is this all—the building of an important city means the locating and establishment of industries, the locating and establishment of industries means the employment of more men and more women, thus affording an opportunity for many idle men and women in this community to obtain employment.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I have given to the questions and issues now engaging the attention of the citizenship of Albany and Decatur, of Morgan County and of the entire State such careful and deliberate consideration as I am capable of, and the result has been my conclusion to announce myself as a candidate for the legislature from Morgan County, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary, August 10, 1926.

PLATFORM

On these four corner stones-Educational Expansion, Uninterrupted Good Roads Program, Completion of the Port of Mobile and Muscle Shoals Legislation have I built my platform, and, with the issue of merging the municipalities of Albany and Decatur do I deck it.

FINALE

To my standing in the community in which I have resided for the past thirty-five years and to my record as your Legislator and to the service which I have rendered to the people of Albany and Decatur and of Morgan county in the past I do respectfully refer you and ask that on that standing, record and service you decide as to my ability and worthiness to again represent you in the legislature of Alabama.

Very respectfully,

John Patterson

Stars Arise From Frosh at U. of A.

(Associated Press) TUSCALOOSA, Ala., May 14-Probable diamond stars of the future are seen rising here at the University of Alabama in the undefeated 1926 fresh-

The University of Alabama, noted for its collegiate stars sent to the majors elsewhere, like such men as Joe Sewell, Luke Sewell, Ernie Wingard, Riggs Stephenson, Grant Gillis and others, may have coming diamond satellites among these freshmen men of this year.

The "Rats" played ten games this year and emerged the victors in every one of them. In most of them the scores were by decided margins. With the graduation this year of severa! men from the varsity ranks, these 1926 Freshmen are expected to take these places in the front file.

Tyson, a catcher, is said to be a coming receiver and is expected to make the grade in a varsity uniform. A big future has been predicted for Syd Cohen, brother to Andy Cohen formerly of Waco team of the Texas League and now the property of the New York Giants is a first baseman of rare ability. With the graduation this year of Connaster from the varsity, Cohen is expected to step into the place.

Jack Hayes, on shortstop, made a record of scooping them up that seems to indicate he has a bright future ahead of him. The University has turned out many famous shortstoppers and Hayes may be one of them.

Among the likely hurlers are Campbell and Spetz, who did the bulk of the pitching, and seem the most probable to make the varsity staff next year. Others of the flingers include Alley, Allen, Cole, Williamson and Retired Minister Tells How He Keeps in Good Form With the Assistance of Black-Draught.

West Graham, Va.—The Rev. Lewis Evans, a well-known retired minister, now past 80, living here, has a high opinion of Black-Draught, which he says he has taken when needed, for 25 years. "For years I had been suffering with my liver," he says. "Sometimes the pain would be very intense and my back would hurt all the time. Black-Draught was the first thing I found that would give me any relief.

"My liver has always been sluggish. Sometimes it gives me a lot of trouble. I have suffered a lot with it—pains in my side and back, and bad headache, caused from extreme biliousness.

"After I found Black-Draught, I would begin to take it as soon as I felt a spell coming on and it re-lieved the cause at once. I can recommend it to anybody suffer-ing from liver trouble. A dose or two now and then keeps me in good form."

Made from selected medicinal roots and herbs, and containing no dangerous mineral drugs, Black-Draught is nature's own remedy for a tired, lazy liver. NC-166
